Product Description

Handheld electric storage baler

Handheld storage baler, as an efficient, convenient and durable packaging tool, is gradually becoming an indispensable assistant in many industries.

Its wide applicability is impressive, whether in the aluminum, steel and other metal processing industry, or in the field of cotton spinning, brick manufacturing and busy logistics warehousing, handheld storage balers can meet a variety of packaging needs with its excellent performance. This machine is designed for PET and PP packaging tape, compatible with a wide range of sizes from 16mm to 19mm and thickness from 0.5mm to 1.0mm, providing users with a variety of options.

In terms of packaging performance, the handheld electric storage baler also performs well. It has a strapping force of up to 4000N, and this force can be flexibly adjusted in a wide range of 600N to 4000N, ensuring the right tightening effect for both light and heavy cargo. This feature greatly improves the reliability and safety of packaging, reducing the risk of shifting or damaging goods during transport and storage.

To enhance the user experience, the machine is equipped with an advanced CNC display. This design allows users to intuitively understand the working state of the machine, remaining power and packaging parameters and other important information, so as to more accurately control the packaging process. In addition, the 4000mAh large-capacity battery guarantees a long battery life and takes only about 60 minutes to fully charge, greatly improving work efficiency.

In order to make users more comfortable in the process of use, we also provide a series of intimate accessories and services. In addition to the detailed product manual, it also comes with a practical kit and spare batteries to ensure that users can quickly find a solution when they encounter any problems, maintaining continuity and efficiency of work.

To sum up, the handheld storage baler has become the ideal choice for many industry users with its wide applicability, excellent packaging performance, humanized design and thoughtful spare parts service.
