Product Description

L-KZ16 pneumatic bundling machine

L-KZ16 pneumatic integrated strapping machine is an efficient and convenient strapping tool, specially designed for 16mm wide and 0.63-0.9mm thick steel strips, widely used in paper, aluminum, steel, cotton mills, logistics and other industries. With its excellent performance and reliability, the equipment is the ideal choice for strapping operations in various industries.

Our Product Introduction

First of all, L-KZ16 pneumatic integrated strapping machine has a strong strapping capacity, the maximum tension of up to 3000N, can firmly tie a variety of heavy goods, to ensure the safety and stability during transportation and storage. Its applicable air pressure range is 0.4-0.6Mpa, simple and efficient operation, can quickly complete the bundling task, significantly improve work efficiency.

Secondly, the equipment adopts pneumatic drive mode, which has the characteristics of strong power, low noise and long service life. Its one-piece design makes it compact, easy to carry and operate, especially suitable for use in small or complex operating environments. Whether it is the binding of paper rolls in the paper industry, or the fixing of heavy materials such as steel and aluminum, L-KZ16 can easily cope with the diverse needs of different industries.

In addition, the L-KZ16 pneumatic one-piece strapping machine is equipped with a full range of accessories, including manuals and kits, so that users can quickly get started and perform daily maintenance. The manual details the operation steps, maintenance methods and solutions to common faults of the equipment to ensure that users can give full play to the performance of the equipment and extend its service life.

In short, L-KZ16 pneumatic bundling machine with its strong tension, wide applicability, convenient operation and a complete range of accessories, become the industry strapping operations of the right hand. Whether it is to improve production efficiency or ensure the safety of goods, L-KZ16 can provide users with a reliable solution.
