Product Description

L-KZ16 pneumatic bundling machine

The L-KZ19 pneumatic integrated strapping machine is a professional equipment designed for high-strength strapping needs, suitable for 19mm wide and 0.63-0.9mm thick steel tape, which can meet the strapping requirements of a variety of industries.

Our Product Introduction

Its maximum pulling force can reach 3000N, ensuring that the strapping is firm and reliable, especially suitable for the fixation and transportation of heavy goods. The equipment adopts pneumatic drive mode, operating pressure range of 0.4-0.6Mpa, strong power and stable operation, can efficiently complete the bundling task, while reducing the labor intensity of the operator.

The design of L-KZ19 pneumatic bundling machine focuses on practicality and convenience. Its compact and lightweight integrated structure is easy to carry and operate, and is suitable for a variety of working environments, whether it is a factory floor, a warehouse or a logistics site. The equipment is made of high-quality materials, strong durability, and can run stably for a long time, reducing maintenance costs. In addition, its low-noise design makes the working environment more comfortable and meets the requirements of modern industry for environmental protection and humanization.

In the field of application, L-KZ19 pneumatic bundling machine has a wide range of applicability. Whether it's strapping paper rolls in the paper industry, fixing profiles in the aluminum and steel industry, packaging textiles in cotton mills, or even transporting goods in the logistics industry, the equipment provides efficient and reliable strapping solutions.

For ease of use, the L-KZ19 pneumatic one-piece strapping machine is equipped with a full range of accessories, including detailed instructions and practical kits. The manual content is clear and easy to understand, covering the use of equipment, maintenance skills and common troubleshooting guide, to help users quickly grasp the operation essentials. The kit facilitates routine maintenance and simple repairs, ensuring that the equipment is always in top working condition.

In short, the L-KZ19 pneumatic bundling machine is an efficient assistant in bundling operations with its excellent performance, wide range of application scenarios and user-friendly design. Whether it is to improve work efficiency or to ensure the safety of goods, L-KZ19 can provide users with professional and reliable solutions.
