Product Description

Pneumatic strapping tools and strapping machines

The KZ25B pneumatic strapping machine is a strapping tool specially designed for 25mm wide steel straps, suitable for the fixation and strapping of various heavy goods. With its lightweight design, powerful tensile force and stable clamping performance, the KZ25B is widely popular in industries such as steel, aluminum, wood and brick factories, and has become an ideal choice for improving packaging efficiency and reducing labor intensity.

Our Product Introduction

I. Product Features

Applicable to 25mm steel strips

The KZ25B is specially optimized for 25mm wide steel strapping to ensure a perfect match between the strapping and the equipment, avoiding problems such as loose locking or insufficient tension caused by size mismatch.

Strong tensile force (7500N)

It provides a tensioning force of up to 7500N to ensure that the steel belt adheres closely to the goods, preventing loosening or scattering during transportation. It is particularly suitable for fixing heavy materials.

High clamping force (11000N)

The clamping opening can withstand a tensile force of 11,000N, ensuring the lock is firmly fastened. Even during bumpy transportation or under heavy loads, it remains stable, reducing the risk of breakage.

Pneumatic drive, highly efficient and labor-saving

Driven by compressed air, it can complete tensioning, locking and cutting with one click, significantly increasing the packaging speed. Compared with manual tools, the efficiency is improved by more than 60%.

ii. Core Advantages

Lightweight design: Compact body, moderate weight, easy to operate for long hours, reducing fatigue for workers.

Durable: high-quality alloy, impact-resistant, wear-resistant, suitable for high-intensity working conditions.

Easy to operate: No complex training required, learn and use immediately, reducing human error.

Low maintenance cost: stable structure, low failure rate, more economical for long-term use.

iii. Applicable Industries

It is used in various industries such as the metal industry, building materials industry, wood processing, logistics and warehousing, etc

V. Conclusion

The KZ25B pneumatic strapping machine, with its outstanding performance, lightweight design and wide applicability, has become the preferred tool for medium and heavy-duty strapping operations. Whether it is to enhance production efficiency or ensure transportation safety, it can provide stable and reliable solutions. Choose KZ25B to make packaging work easier and more efficient!
