Product Description

K2 Electric packaging machine

This electric strapping machine is a professional and efficient strapping device, specially designed for logistics transportation, warehousing packaging and industrial production. It is perfectly compatible with PET and PP strapping bands of 13-16mm. The equipment is driven by high-performance motors, providing adjustable pulling force ranging from 400 to 3200N. It can intelligently adjust the strapping force according to the weight and material of the goods, ensuring stable strapping from light cartons to heavy pallets.

Equipped with a 4000mAh large-capacity lithium battery, it supports 90-minute fast charging. A single charge can complete approximately 300 packaging tasks, and its long-lasting battery life meets the demands of high-intensity work. The intelligent battery level display function makes battery level management clear at a glance and avoids work interruption.

Another highlight is its convenient operation. The intelligent numerical control panel can precisely adjust the pulling force and welding time to ensure consistency in each strapping. The ergonomic design makes the machine comfortable to hold and less likely to cause fatigue even after long-term operation. The whole machine has a compact structure, is lightweight, and takes into account both durability and portability.

Compared with the traditional manual packaging method, this machine can greatly improve work efficiency and significantly reduce labor intensity. It is an ideal choice for modern logistics, warehousing and manufacturing enterprises, helping you achieve efficient and standardized strapping operations.
