Product Description

Electric strapping machine

This electric strapping machine, with its intelligent and convenient design, brings innovation to strapping work in various industries. The adjustable tensile force of 600-3200N is like a precise "packer", capable of flexibly adjusting the force according to the characteristics of different goods. When facing cotton textiles, it will bind them gently and firmly. When encountering heavy goods such as aluminium materials and bricks, sufficient force can be applied to ensure transportation safety.

It has excellent adaptability for PET and PP strapping bands with a width of 13-16mm. There is no need for complicated Settings, and it can easily accommodate both materials, saving operators the trouble of switching and making the strapping process more efficient. The 4000mAh battery provides long-lasting power and can handle continuous operations even during peak logistics hours with ease. The 90-120 minute fast charging enables the device to resume operation after a short break, avoiding delays due to insufficient battery power.

In brick factories, it can operate stably in a dusty environment and efficiently complete the binding of bricks. In the aluminium workshop, its precise force control protects the aluminium materials from damage. It can also quickly handle various packaging demands for cotton mills and logistics stations. When placing an order, accessories and an instruction manual will be given as a gift to help users get started quickly, making this electric strapping machine a great helper for improving work efficiency.
